PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Greetings Fellow Anglers!

I can't believe that fall is almost upon us. After two months of hot and then smoky weather, it's so refreshing to have the cool mornings, uncrowded lakes, and blue (sometimes) skies back again.

Being president of a club like the Sunriver Anglers has been an eye opening experience for me, The club does so much for the community. We've helped ODF&W with tui chub removal by providing funding for nets and interns. We've donated cash so that kids fighting cancer could have a fishing outing with their families.

We partnered with the US Forest Service, ODF&W and Sunriver Resort to put on the Kid's Free Fishing Day at Caldera Springs.

We provide volunteers to help with ODF&W's Angler education at the Three Rivers School and at the Kokanee Karnival at Fall River. We provide and cook the lunches at the Kokanee Karnival at Shevlin Park in April. In many ways, we are so much more than "just" a fishing club.

I am hoping that a few of you will be willing to step up to keep the club's momentum and vision going. We are looking for some board members and officers for the upcoming year. All you need is some enthusiasm and a little bit of time. If you are even the tiniest bit interested, please contact me!

If you have any other questions or comments, please feel free to contact me at ryniesra@gmail.com Thanks!

Upcoming Meetings-

September speaker- Brian Chou.

On Thursday, September 21, the Sunriver Anglers would like to invite everyone to their monthly meeting held at the SHARC at 7:00 pm. This month's speaker will be Brian Chou, an enthusiastic angler from the Portland area. His presentation is titled, "How to apply and utilize the two handed Spey casting approach in fishing." The two-handed Spey technique allows more powerful casts and avoids obstacles on the shore by keeping most of the line in front of the angler. This type of casting is often used for fishing large rivers for steelhead and salmon.

An avid chaser of the elusive steelhead, Brian is a Federation of Fly Fishers certified casting instructor who excels in the two handed Spey fly rod techniques. Chou will be outside of the SHARC at 6:00 pm demonstrating and teaching this two handed fly fishing style. Everyone is welcome, meet our members in the in the amphitheater before the meeting inside.

He began as a guide but now finds himself instructing, photographing, writing, fly tying and working alongside fly fishing companies to develop products that help anglers enjoy their time on the water. He now spends a lot of time as an ambassador and mentor for Soul River Runs Deep, a non-profit engaging inner city youth and US veterans to find peace and direction through fly fishing. Brian is passionate about teaching and spreading the love of outdoors through fly fishing. Standing in the water working hard to get that strike can be great therapy. He finds himself more as a mentor, teaching the application of tactics of understanding what your quarry wants.

Chou grew up in the Tri-Cities area, learning to fish on the lower Yakima River going after bass. Now residing in the Portland area, his home waters are the Clackamas and Sandy rivers, but he can also be found on the many great steelhead rivers of Northern Oregon and Southwest Washington.

Brian is a professional fly tier as well. He brings unique facets of creativity, strategy, and ingenuity to his fly tying. Traditional or unconventional? Both of these are incorporated into his flies. For him, fly fishing is a constantly evolving sport. A little experimentation is fun. Are his fly patterns a piece of art, are they functional, are they based on science or some combinations of all above. He takes all of these factors, plus thousands of hours on the water to create a fly that will work. Being a basketball fan, and a resident of Portland, he has created a fly that fish love. The fly's name, the Rip City.

He works with many fly fishing companies product testing and consulting on their fly rods and lines. Brian has had many articles and pictures published in Steelheader's Journal, the Salmon and Steelhead Journal, as well as other flying fishing magazines. With his science background, he has written on the use of the different types of lines and shooting heads. Putting the fly in the right place, at the right time is important. That may be getting the fly two feet under the surface, when the current is strong. Knowing what lines and heads are available can make this task a lot easier. Come ready to ask questions on what can make this happen.

A final quote from Brian Chou, "These three goals (Effective, Efficient, Effortless) are what I strive to achieve when I approach the water. We all work way too hard for our free time as it is. No need for fishing to add to everyday exhaustion and stress, right?"

October Speakers-
Mary Ann and Dave
Dozer

On October 19, the Sunriver Anglers Club has the privilege of hosting the husband and wife team of Dave and Mary Ann Dozer. The club's monthly meeting and presentation by the Dozers starts at 7:00 pm at the SHARC. The Topic for the evening will be “The Experience of Building Your First Bamboo Fly Rod.” Anyone with questions or bamboo rods they have questions about are welcome to come at 6:30 for a little social time before the main presentation. Also at 6:30, Sunriver Brewery will hold a beer tasting. Come early have a brew and share some fishing stories with your fellow anglers.

Dave began fishing at an early age, and had his first fly rod at age eight. In his early twenties, he started building graphite rods. Using his own hand made rods, added to his enjoyment of fly fishing. And then many years ago he was handed an 8' 0" Leonard Duracane, and he was hooked on bamboo. He began crafting his own bamboo rods, and has moved on to selling them commercially, as well as teaching students one on one to make their own bamboo rods.

Quoted from his website, Dave states, “Finely crafted bamboo fly rods evoke a feeling of artistry, quality craftsmanship, and tradition. A well-built rod has a soul; a feeling to it that is often difficult to describe, but you know it's there. Casting one takes you to a whole new experience level. My goal in building bamboo rods is to create the highest quality and finest casting rods I can. I also want to provide you with a fine fly fishing instrument that is crafted from the highest quality materials and components available.”

Mary Ann Dozer, a long time engineer for Hewlett Packard, did not grow up as a fisherman. Married to Dave, she thought that his fly fishing was a stupid pastime. And then they traveled to Yellowstone National Park, and she was convinced to try. She fell in love with the sport. The technical and analytical parts of fly fishing intrigued her engineering background. Mary Ann jumped into the sport, worked on her casting technique, and has been certified by the Federation of Fly Fishers as a Master Casting Instructor. Only 150 people hold this rating in the United States.

This high energy passionate fly fishing woman has worked hard bringing her love of fishing to women throughout the United States. She is active with Casting for Recovery. This nonprofit organization's mission is "to enhance the quality of life of women with breast cancer through a unique program that combines breast-cancer education and peer support with the therapeutic sport of fly fishing." Mary Ann instructs women in the art of casting at free retreats throughout the country each year.

Mary Ann added guiding to her repertoire in 2009. She spent most of her early time leading trips on the Salmon River out of Stanley, Idaho. Recently, she and her husband have relocated to Sisters, Oregon. She now is a guide for the Fly Fisher's Place in her home town. She spends most of her time on the Crooked River, but also does other rivers in Central Oregon. She is enthusiastic about her job, and loves to pass on her passion to her clients.

This couple lives for fly fishing. Starting at the construction of the rods they use, teaching the proper technique in casting, to landing the fish in the net. They have a lot of experience to share, and their presentation should not be missed.

Club History- by Marv Yoshinaka

ORIGINS OF THE SUNRIVER ANGLERS

This year the Sunriver Anglers is celebrating its 40th anniversary as a part of the Sunriver community. The following is an excerpt from the club's scrapbook, "History—The Sunriver Anglers, Volume One 1976 to 1978" which describes the origin of the Sunriver Anglers. It is presented exactly as it was originally written.

"THE 'SPAWNING'

Although they had started talking about an anglers' club in late 1975, it was not until the winter of 1976 that the "founders" of the SUNRIVER ANGLERS CLUB got off their rumps and got the idea moving. After the 1976 season had ended, five local fishermen got serious, had a couple of informal meetings, and by November 22, had mailed an invitation to all of the brothers they knew from Crescent to Redmond. They had contacted "Trout Unlimited" and the "Federation of Fly Fishermen", the two national clubs, and both were eager to have a member club started in Sunriver.

Although most of the dyed in the wool anglers in the area were already members of Trout Unlimited in Bend, there was enough interest to justify going on with the idea, so more data were collected from the national clubs, Chuck Rafferty outlined a set of by-laws, and the first meeting was held on March 17, 1977. Twenty prospective members showed up. The meeting was all business, as by-laws were adopted with a few changes and a name for the club was chosen.

There was considerable discussion given to the matter of affiliation. It was finally decided that as there was already an active chapter of Trout Unlimited in Bend, and since the Federation of Fly Fishermen was much cheaper to join, as well as having an excellent free film library, we would "join up." This was done with the definite understanding that despite the name, all kinds of trout fishermen (short of dynamiters) would be welcome as members. Hence the name, "Sunriver Anglers" which is all inclusive, and the club treasures as members spin fishermen, fly anglers, trollers and bait fishermen, all with equal standing in the club's pecking order."

The Sunriver Anglers began with 24 regular members and 2 associate members on the roster. The officers who were elected at the first meeting were:

President	Charles Cusack
Vice President	Earl Olson
Secretary/Treasurer	Ed Partland
Program Chairman	Paul Redding
Director (1 year)	John Roths
Director (2 year)	Al Price
Director (2 year)	David Dunscombe

Dave Dunscombe still lives in the Bend area and continues to actively fish. We are not certain if any of the other original club officers are still with us. If you have any information on these anglers please let us know.

“Perspectives on Lower Deschutes Water Quality”

Max Bothwell has spent his career researching the issue of algal growth in rivers throughout North America including the rivers on Vancouver Island and the Thompson River. Max has also been a technical advisor to Biosecurity New Zealand in addressing the “Didymo” threat in that country’s rivers.

His wealth of experience in identifying the sources of algal blooms and how to address them is why we have asked him to attend our general meeting.

Those of us who regularly fish and wade the Lower Deschutes (below Pelton Dam) know firsthand that algae is a huge problem. We see its growth and recognize the impact on the fishery. We have also heard many opinions, theories and approaches regarding how the problem should be addressed.

We are thrilled and feel fortunate to have Max offer his perspectives on the issue in an informative presentation followed by a question and answer period.

Special Offer for guided fishing in 2018

Hi Guys,

Hope you guys are prepping to have a great weekend.

Neal and I just got off from a multi-day float down the Lower Deschutes River. We had amazing river experience that I wanted to share with you.

On our trip we knew that the steelhead were going to be few and far between, so we took a couple of trout rods with us. During the evenings and morning shade sessions we swung for steelhead, and searched for trout throughout the day. We were able to cover lots of water in the lower sections and this far exceeded our expectations.

Four steelhead were found and a few mystery tugs were to be had! But, what was truly impressive was how under pressured the trout fishing has been in the lower river. Every stop produced fish, if not multiples of hard fighting Deschutes trout! We were able to cover some pretty amazing water with a small group size. Definitely, an experience that I believe every angler should be able to enjoy!

So, we have decided to add a limited time special trip to the adventures we offer. This is a two night drift style steelhead/trout combo trip, with only a two angler minimum. The time frame for this productive trip is NOW through November. Cost for the trip will be $1375 per angler (plus vehicle shuttle and ODFW licensing fees.) Meals, camp, amazing experience and guides included.

I wanted to share this with everyone in hopes to see you on the river this fall. Please, tell a friend!

Thanks

Russ Scott

Sunriver Angler's Fly Tying Corner - By: Phil Fischer

The Soft Hackle October Caddis is a fly I learned many years ago during a very late-night fly tying jam with Andy Puyans, my fly tying mentor.

I first used this pattern for the notoriously finicky trout in California's Hat Creek. I was on a steep fly fishing learning curve in those days and this pattern helped me solve the mystery to catch several nice trout that day. The natural October Caddis is an honest size 8-10. It hatches during its namesake month, but is available as larvae throughout the season.

It is a caddis that builds a case and spends most of its life on the bottom of rivers inside its case. However, it is also prone to behavioral drifts when it leaves its case and drifts with the current until it builds a new and larger case. It is especially susceptible to feeding trout during these times, which occur usually later afternoon during June and July. But I have found a drifted Soft Hackle pattern can work well at any time of year; it is a large meal for the trout.

The original pattern used slightly different materials, as I have made updates using a variety of materials not available back then. But the main concept is still the same. I have used a dubbing for the abdomen that has elements of flash and pearlescent flash ribbing that can give an impression of air bubbles in the natural. Also, I have added CDC to the underwing of this pattern to capture air bubbles, much like the natural. In the example, I tie this with a tungsten bead and a few wraps of lead wire to get the pattern down quickly. But I also fish it lightly weighted, depending on the depth of water I am fishing.

Natural October Caddis Adult

I like this pattern for both trout and steelhead. I've fished it on many trout rivers, such as the McCloud and Upper Sacramento in Northern California. But also for Steelhead on the Trinity and Lower Deschutes. I use two primary techniques: Tight-line nymphing, or casting and drifting the fly dead drifted under an indicator. Both methods work. But I also pick up quite a few fish by swinging the fly at the tail end of the drift. I have always remembered those lessons the trout on Hat Creek taught me and still go back to this pattern every Fall as October Caddis time approaches.

Soft Hackle October Caddis Materials List:

Hook: Daiichi 1260, Size 8-10

Thread: Veevus 14/0 Black

Bead: Canadian Llama 7/64 Black Tungsten

Additional Weight: .025" Lead Wire

Abdomen: Spirit River Brite Blend Polar Orange

Rib: Pearlescent Flat Flash - Small

Wing Pads: Natural Turkey

CDC: TroutHunter Dark Pardo

Hackle: Whiting Farms Brahma Hen – Natural Brown

Horns: Ringneck Pheasant Tail Barbs

Thorax: Peacock Herl
